U. S. Infantrymen Issued Weapons Ammunition

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—U. S. infantrymen got cartridges Thursday for the rifles they have been carrying empty in their assignment to help thwart any Communist infiltration from Laos.

Lt. Gen. James I. Richardson Jr., commander of American forces, announced the distribution of ammunition to the 1st Battle Group, 27th Infantry.

The battle group of 1,000 men—to be doubled by reinforcements in an airlift of troops and equipment expected to continue at least another week—is encamped in a forested area at Khorat, 135 miles northeast of Bangkok and a greater distance west of the Laotian frontier.

Contributing to a discussion that arose at President Kennedy's news conference in Washington Wednesday, Richardson said: "I wish to emphasize that the 1st Battle Group has been prepared since its initial arrival in Thailand to carry out any mission assigned, combat or otherwise."

The group arrived six weeks ago for Southeast Asia Treaty Organization maneuvers.

The basic idea of his statement—like explanations of Kennedy and the Pentagon—was that, though the rifles were empty, ammunition was readily available in storage and in trucks that moved with the units.

The Pentagon described this as standard Army practice for troops not in contact with or immediately threatened by an enemy.

On the other hand, ammunition clips are regularly carried by Marines. An 1,800-man Marine expeditionary force forming part of Richardson's command is stationed at Udorn, about 40 miles south of the Laotian frontier.

Rep. Walter Submits Bill To Aid Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., submitted Thursday legislation designed to bring an estimated 6,000 Chinese refugees from Hong Kong into the United States.

The proposal was described as one agreed on by administration and congressional immigration chiefs to implement President Kennedy's plan to ease the refugee pressure on Hong Kong. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he supports the plan.

stream of hungry escapees from Red China who have been pressing in on Hong Kong, Washington officials say the U. S. action will help ease the strain on the overcrowded British colony.

Rusk said he could not say from available reports whether the Red Chinese actually are clamping down on the surge of border crossings, as reported in news dispatches from Hong Kong.

Walter, an author of the basic immigration law, heads a House subcommittee on immigration.

Kennedy ordered Wednesday that several thousand refugees be admitted under emergency provisions of existing law such as were invoked to admit Hungarians in 1956-57 and more recently Cuban escapees.

Kennedy Dedicates Building

Under Walter's bill, the Chinese would get special entry not requiring subsequent legislation enabling them to become permanent residents, as was needed for the Hungarians, officials said.

Walter said the Chinese would get special entry not requiring subsequent legislation enabling them to become permanent residents, as was needed for the Hungarians, officials said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy dug into a bucket with a silver trowel Thursday, slapped some mortar on a big marble block, and helped dedicate a new $70-million House Office Building.

The President's masonry didn't measure up to specifications, however, and after he had gone the block was hoisted and workmen did the job over again.

The block-long, four-story building across the street from the Capitol has been named after the late Sam Rayburn, and Kennedy devoted his brief remarks to a tribute to the man who was speaker of the House longer than anyone else.

Rayburn's great skill and lasting contribution, said the President, was his ability to achieve harmony between Congress and the executive branch, thus making the system of checks and balances that are the heart of the American form of government.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and about 75 members of Congress sat under the broiling sun on a platform with the President while several hundred spectators watched from the shade of nearby trees.

The cornerstone is a marble block four feet long and two feet wide with a hollow space for a time capsule.

Talk Between Crew And Base Gives No Reason For Crash

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "Continental 11, do you read. Continental 11, do you read."

But there was no reply, thus ending the last radio conversation with Continental Airlines Jet Flight 11 that disintegrated in the air and crashed near Unionville, Mo. Tuesday night, killing all 45 persons on board.

An official said the radio conversation between the crew of the airliner and a ground control station at Waverly, Iowa, shed no light on the reason for the accident. Nor did the crew give any indication of any trouble.

Mystery Further Shrouded

And the mystery was further shrouded by the finding of a plane's hostess seat about 125 miles from the crash scene. The body of one stewardess is missing.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators at Centerville, Iowa, reported locating the hostess seat, said "We will have to lengthen the scope of the investigation."

Previously hits of the $5.5-million jet were discovered as far as 60 miles northeast of the crash area.

The recording of the last radio contacts with the plane, played here Thursday, gave no indications of any trouble, said John M. Beardslee, assistant administrator of the central region, Federal Aviation Agency.

First Contact

When first contacted by the Waverly station, a crewman on the airliner asked for information on a small line in the path of the flight.

The control center advised the location of three cells, the dense parts of a storm, and told the ship where there were two holes in the squall line.

One of the holes was north of the regular flight course between Fort Madison, Iowa and Kirksville, Mo.

"Let's try that one," radioed the plane.

"Continental 11, I show just about from your present position direct Kirksville now should clear all of weather, over," the Waverly station told the plane a bit later.

Starts To Turn

"Okay, we're starting our turn. Requesting our present position direct Kansas City," the plane's crewman replied. This meant, officials said, the plane requested clearance to proceed direct to Kansas City from its position at that time.

"This conversation indicates the plane got through the squall line and apparently the plane's crew thought so too," said Beardslee. Officials do not know which of the crew member carried on the radio conversation.

Pratt's Death Listed As A Suicide

CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's jury decided Thursday an official of a corporation that did business with Billie Sol Estes killed himself while temporarily insane.

No inquest testimony developed that might link the victim, Howard Pratt, 31, with the Texas case. His widow told of marital discord and his lawyer declared Pratt did not know Estes.

Pratt was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning Wednesday in his station wagon in a parking lot of the Commercial Solvents Corp. A piece of flexible metal tubing ran from the engine exhaust pipe through a rear window of the car.

Pratt was manager of the Chicago office of Commercial Solvents. The corporation supplied fertilizer to Estes who has been charged with fraud in Texas and is under investigation by federal and state officials. A spokesman

Carpenter Goes Up And Down Safely; Off Mark By 200 Miles Takes To Life Raft After Atlantic Ocean Landing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter rocketed around the world three times Thursday and then was plucked from the sea by a helicopter after landing 200 miles beyond his target area.

At the time he was hoisted into the jet helicopter from the carrier Intrepid, the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander was reported safe, sound and serene. He radioed, "I feel fine."

His rescue from a rubber life raft floating in a calm sea a thousand miles southeast of here came shortly after 3:30 p.m. At that time he had been gone from Cape Canaveral for seven hours and 45 minutes.

He apparently had been floating on his rubber life raft since he landed about 12:41 p.m.

Carpenter headed for the Intrepid and then to Grand Turk Island for a medical examination and a flight report. He is scheduled to come back here Sunday for welcoming ceremonies and a news conference.

Immediately after the rescue was reported, President Kennedy in Washington said:

"The American people will be gratified by the successful orbital flight of Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter and his subsequent rescue."

The skill and initiative of those who participated in the rescue of Cmdr. Carpenter, coupled with his courage, is heartwarming to us all."

The three paramedics — naval medical technicians — who had jumped to Carpenter's aid in event he was injured and to affix a rubber float to the space capsule, were also picked up by another helicopter.

A radio report from the Intrepid said two skin divers jumped into the water from the rescue helicopter to help Carpenter slip into the harness which reeled him up from the water like a fish. Both skin divers were then taken back aboard the same way.

Carpenter reached the Intrepid at 4:55 p.m.

Carpenter's wife, Rene, 33, and her four children made history of a sort by becoming the first family of an astronaut to watch an actual launch of husband and father.

Mrs. Carpenter and the children were reported to have watched the launching from "somewhere along the beach," but none could be reached for comment.

All the other wives and children of astronauts have watched the operations on television.

For a heart stopping 35 minutes it was feared that the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander and his Aurora 7 spacecraft had been lost.

Then came the cheering news shortly after 1:20 p.m. that a Navy patrol bomber had sighted Carpenter floating on a life raft a thousand miles southeast of here instead of the planned 800 miles.

The Coast Guard at the Virgin Islands said he came down off Anegada Island, 19 degrees and 23 minutes north latitude and 64 degrees and 1/2 minute west longitude.

Overshot Unexplained

Why the capsule overshoot the planned impact area had yet to be explained officially but it set off a fantastic flurry of grim activity in which ships were ordered to turn at flank speed and race for the area indicated by radar.

It appeared that a failure of the retro-rockets to fire automatically as scheduled may have been responsible for the overshooting.

The astronaut monitors were heard to give a countdown for the rocket firing at 12:17 p.m. Apparently the rockets did not fire.

Carpenter was told: "As your gyros are off, you'll have to use attitude bypass manual override."

There was another short countdown and the rockets apparently were fired manually by Carpenter. The time interval between the display of precision space flight.

Blast Off

Carpenter left this earth atop a flaming 360,000-pound thrust Atlas missile at 7:45 a.m.

Despite the difficulties encountered on landing and during the flight, the nation moved another long step closer to a moon trip by man in this decade.

Though Carpenter was calm throughout, he was not cool. At one point the temperature inside his aluminumized space suit climbed to 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Midway through his second orbit, it appeared that a shortage of fuel for his in-flight controls might develop and force him down before the end of the planned three orbits.

Three difficulties in flight, all correctable, the voyage was a scientific success, matching that of Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., on Feb. 20.

4 Hours 56 Minutes

During his four-hour-and-56-minute flight in which he reached a maximum altitude of 164 miles and a speed of 17,532 miles an hour, the astronaut:

Concluded that the mysterious particles encountered in space by Glenn and called "fireflies" for lack of a better name looked a great deal like snowflakes.

Learned by trailing a balloon behind his Aurora 7 spacecraft that space offers almost no resistance, if any at all, to the movement of objects through that environment.

Became the first astronaut to discover that he could change the orbital posture of his space craft simply by moving his head and arms.

Discovered that his special, bite-sized apple pie and high protein sandwiches crumbled in space like cookies.

Found that in the dark of space the colors orange and silver were the most easily detectable. These colors had been painted on the trailing balloon.

Drank Water

Became the first American to drink water copiously in space, taking about 24 swallows to restore the water balance lost through perspiration.

Became the first man to broadcast in recognizable Spanish in space by transmitting a goodwill message to the citizens of the Republic of Mexico as he passed over the tracking station at Guaymas, Mexico.

Found the earth blanketed at some points by four distinct layers of clouds.

This cloud blanket caused one experiment to go awry over Australia. He released some flares in a night vision study but was unable to see them because of the cloud blanket.

Attitude Control Problem

Like Glenn, Carpenter ran into attitude control problems. He apparently was using up his supply of hydrogen peroxide fuel far more rapidly than anticipated.

This fuel powers small jets which govern the pitch, roll and yaw of the space craft in flight though it does not affect the orbital position of the capsule which is hurtling about like a bullet.

Had he run out of the hydrogen peroxide and been unable to bring his heat shield forward for re-entry in which temperatures build up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit, he and his capsule would have been incinerated.

In any case, Carpenter went about his earth-girdling journey with all the aplomb initially of a man taking a Sunday trip around the block. At no point on the flight did he sound excited. He was a man doing a job.

Fourth American Up

By his feat, Carpenter became the fourth American to enter space

Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth three times on Feb. 20. He followed two Russians, Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov, who had gone into orbit the previous year.

For Carpenter the great adventure began after he had been buttoned up inside the space capsule for three hours and four minutes. He had first entered the 4,200-pound space capsule at 4:41 a.m. Weather forced a series of 15-minute delays but gradually a hot, 90-degree sun burned off the early morning ground haze and everything was suddenly "Go."

Within 2 1/2 minutes after his blastoff, in which he trailed great streams of flame and smoke, the great booster engines dropped away and he was hurried to orbital speed by a 60,000-pound thrust sustainer engine.

Immediately after he passed Bermuda, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's spokesman, Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Powers, said:

"The United States has launched its second manned orbital flight as part of its continuing investigation leading to a manned flight to the moon and return."

"My Status Is Good"

Three minutes and 30 seconds after departure, Carpenter's voice crackled over the airwaves saying "My status is good."

At take off, the 153-pound Carpenter was subjected to forces 7 1/2 times that of gravity, which means that for a brief period he weighed 1,160 pounds.

Carpenter began reporting back to earth almost as soon as he began his climb into the path which would take him through three sunsets and three sunrises in less than five hours.

Two other Titans undergoing the fueling test, and the Chico installation's two other launching silos escaped damage. The control center for the three silos likewise was not damaged.

The blast in Silo No. 1 came after the three Titans had first been loaded with their liquid oxygen fuel and then had the liquid propellant withdrawn by the installation's complex pumping system.

The fueling trial was being carried out by the contractor prior to turning over the missile base to the Air Force.

Explosion Destroys Missile

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—A smoke-blowing explosion destroyed a Titan missile and wrecked its launching silo Thursday during a fueling test at the newly constructed Chico missile complex.

No one was killed. Seven workers were hospitalized with heavy smoke inhalation. Fifty-two others were treated for inhalation and released after a check at a Chico hospital.

Donald L. Cantwell, 33, Chico, said he and several other workers escaped being trapped in the blast fumes because they found open a ventilator hatch that was supposed to be closed.

The 20-year-old Battiste had tears in his eyes as he boarded a Greyhound bus Wednesday night for the trip back. Only a reporter and a member of the Travelers Aid Society were on hand to see him off.

Battiste said: "I'm going home to see my aunt. I live with her. She's all alone. I'll get a job, work somewhere, save some money and get a little older. Then maybe I'll try again... everybody was real nice. I'm going to miss this place some, but I'm homesick, too. I've never been so far away before. "I'm going to tell my friends it's just as hard getting a job up here. They may as well stay put."

What Insurance?

The President, in his pull-out-all stops campaign for social security payment of medical expenses for the aged, said opposition to the bill is due to "misconceptions."

Then he promptly uttered one of those "misconceptions." He said the bill would set up a government "insurance system," and of course, it would do nothing of the kind.

What the bill would do is to increase the tax on employees and employers up to $26 a year total. This money would not be set aside, as an insurance scheme would do, to draw interest and await claims upon it by those who had paid.

It would be used right away, to pay bills of people who had not contributed.

Our New Refugee Challenge

The dramatic movement of Chinese people into Hong Kong raises a great many questions that have no simple answers.

But the overriding question should be this:

How best can we help provide room and sustenance for these hungry and desperate refugees trying to get past the barbed-wire barricades?

In the dozen years of Communist rule in China, about a million and a half refugees have made their way by land and water to the beckoning freedom of Hong Kong. This stream has now become a flood. More than 50,000 have tried to get in since May 1, 9,000 of them within 48 hours this week. Hundreds of thousands are reported waiting to cross over.

It does not help to blame the British for forcibly returning these hapless people across the border. Hong Kong, the size of Manhattan, has reached the saturation point of three and a half million people. The colony has done a great deal to cope with the refugee problem, but its scope now is too great for Hong Kong to handle alone.

Neither will it help to delay while trying to fathom what is really going on in Red China. The future actions of Peiping to stem the tide or to allow its continuance is a matter of pure conjecture.

This is a challenge facing the entire Free World. And the nations able to

It is simply a scheme to tax those who work for the benefit of those who have retired. It must be judged on that basis.

The "misconceptions" about the bill have mostly originated with those who are trying to pass it.

For instance, the cost has been officially estimated at $1 billion a year. Outside experts are sure it will cost at least twice that.

This is a traditional "misconception" used by politicians when they want to pass a bill.

Check back and you will find that almost any new program begins by seeming cheap, and soon doubles or trebles its cost.

help can best do so by acting quickly and in concert. Here is an opportunity for the United Nations to lend a constructive hand. But the major responsibility rests upon the countries with room and resources.

The Chiang Government on Formosa has taken a small step toward offering haven to the emigres. Our own government will take in several thousand Chinese who have been cleared and have been on a waiting list in Hong Kong. And it is reviewing its immigration laws with their tiny quota for Orientals. We will have to arrange a sizable emergency immigration of refugees if we are in good conscience to recommend the same move to Canada, Brazil, Australia and other nations that could help.

Supplying the food is a lesser problem. This country has been providing food for refugees in Hong Kong at a rate of 34 million pounds a year, and our vast surpluses will allow much greater help. The real need is to set in motion, with the cooperation of the British, a plan to reopen the barricades and find new homelands for the refugees.

Maybe the Free World is not up to it. But the alternative to making a major try at solving the problem would cause unimaginable suffering. It would be a blow to humanitarian values and all that we've been saying about freedom.

'Just Put It On The Spike With The Others!'

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook

School Board Eye-Opener — Many a local school board member's eyes popped recently when on receipt of the new 1962-63 school budget forms from the State Department of Public Instruction a new category appeared headed: "Salaries, Board of School Directors."

Now, as any public spirited and oftentimes long suffering school board member knows, about the only thanks they receive for their voluntary public service are barrels of growls and criticism from irate taxpayers, parents and what-not. They receive no financial remuneration whatsoever, let alone a "salary."

A check with the Department of Public Instruction on the point this week reveals that the classification was set up in the new budget forms for the purpose of covering only those few school board members who actually perform a paid chore in addition to their directorship, such as school business manager, and for the oftentimes paid posts of board secretary and treasurer, which may or may not be actual school board members incidentally. It also includes the "salaries" of office or clerical help who may be assigned to the board secretary.

Why was the new heading used? . . . It's all part of the department's revised records system and is not intended to imply that school board members receive salaries for being board members. . . . The department still insists the heading is not a misnomer and "is perfectly logical — in light of the facts and the purpose of the heading."

So — for the average taxpayer who may by chance scan his local district's budget report it might be well to remember that the category heading "Salaries, Board of School Directors" doesn't really mean salaries — it means salaries, or something!

Vote Tally Wind-up — Official certifications as to complete vote tallies of the past May 15 primary should be available from local election boards during the coming week, provided local complications have not set in.

Reason: today is the final day for county boards of election to receive military, veterans' and civilian absentee ballots cast in the primary. . . . The official count cannot be completed until these absentee ballots have been returned and tabulated.

How important are these delayed returns? . . . Regardless of what the new total may be, it won't affect any of the statewide offices — the margin in such instances was far too great to be overcome by absentee returns. . . . The story is somewhat different in a few of the more local contests, however, and the possibility exists that returns from some of the absentee votes may change the election results from their present status.

Back In The Saddle — It didn't take Governor David Leo Lawrence long to swing back into his "activity saddle" following his return the first week in May from his month-long round-the-world jog. . . . The following week he had three or four speaking engagements, with about the same tally the next week — chopped up of course by the primary election.

This past week however he's been back in somewhat normal stride (or gallop) complete with eight out-of-town speech-fests, running the gamut from a testimonial dinner at Rimersburg High School (Clarion County) to his Supreme Court Dinner affair at nearby Hershey Hotel.

Query Of The Week — Is there an age limit for holding the office of Governor of Pennsylvania? . . . He can be 105 years old if he cares to hang around that long — there is no "maximum age," but on the "minimum" side, he must be at least 30 years old.

Salvation Army Cites Brig. Adam

BRIGADIER May Adam, Salvation Army Citadel, East Stroudsburg, Pa., was honored last night at the organization's fifth annual report dinner in the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

Brig. Adam received a plaque which stated, "This honor is given to Brig. May Adam for her years of unselfish devotion and service with esteem and affection by the corps and board of directors of the Salvation Army Citadel, East Stroudsburg, Pa." The award was made by Judge Fred W. Davis, life member of the board.

Following the dinner, C. L. Cramer, chairman of the advisory board introduced the guests at the head table and called attention to the work done in the past by the corps in Monroe County.

Rev. Joseph Carr Jr., president of the Monroe County Ministerium, gave the invocation. The annual report was given in skit form, with each statistic represented by a member of the cast holding a record on which was printed the date.

Brig. Adam played for the Junior Songsters in two selections. Nancy Baker, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. H. G. Baker, led the singing.

Reports noted the teens and youngsters held 78 outdoor services in the philosophy of stewardship. A total of 325 senior services and activities, based on practical Christianity were held.

The tide of figures continued, as each person stepped through the doors of the record which said, "It all happened at the Salvation Army." Weekly services were held with a total of 2,026 attending.

Services to needy in the area included shoes for a child to attend school, aid to distressed persons, a meal, lodging or clothing; food and shelter for families in need.

"With the emphasis on young people," Judge Fred W. Davis, another speaker said, "The program of the Salvation Army has increased to a great degree." He cited the Boy Scouts of America, Troop 88, which is sponsored by the Citadel, and the Girl Scouts and Sunbeams.

In addition, Walter Lane has donated time to teaching the young people to play instruments and directed them in their presentation of musical numbers.

One of the largest projects undertaken is that of sending children to camp. Last year, a total of $1,200 was raised to send 98 children to camp. Once again, the program is underway to raise funds to send children to camp.

The total of 30,442 people who attended the 535 youth activities and services attest to the philosophy of "Inasmuch as we have done it to the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Guest Speaker

Guest speaker for the event was Colonel Edward Carey, territorial chief secretary, territorial headquarters, New York City. He considered the dinner a vote of confidence for the Salvation Army, the community and the American way of life.

Judge Davis reminisced over the problems which occurred during the years he has been a member of the board and the needs of the community which have been met through the efforts of the corps.

Lieutenant Colonel William E. Bearchell, divisional commander, Northeastern Pennsylvania Division, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Edward Corey gave the benediction.

Masters Program To Open At ESSC This Summer

THE first program to grant master's degrees at East Stroudsburg State College will get underway during the six-week Summer session this year, the board of trustees was told at its reorganizational meeting last night.

On March 21, the State Council of Education granted the college the privilege of initiating a program which will grant master's degree in health and physical biological science.

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, college president, said a faculty committee is currently preparing an application to the state council for instituting a liberal arts degree.

It is expected that the liberal arts program will start in September, 1963. Koehler pointed out that a full quota of students is enrolled in the teaching curricula for this fall.

Leaves Granted

One semester leaves of absence were granted to Miss Mary Whitenight, associate professor of health and physical education, and to Miss Helen Brown, also an associate professor of health and physical education.

Dr. Richard Luce, an associate professor of health and physical education, was promoted to full professor.

Dr. Shafer Re-elected Head

All officers of the board were re-elected. They are Dr. Floyd W. Mrs. Kathryn B. Edwards, Stroudsburg, vice president; Deleff A. Hansen, Stroudsburg, secretary, and Mrs. Grace Palmer, East Stroudsburg, treasurer.

Pocono Mailers More Alert

MAILERS in the Poconos apparently pay more attention to what they are doing than their big city brothers. Or maybe they're just more honest.

A New York City newspaper yesterday reported that mailers there "accidentally or deliberately" are putting trading stamps instead of postage stamps on letters.

It quoted postal authorities as wishing the mailers "would think before they stamp."

Fred H. Rhodes, Stroudsburg postmaster, and Norman E. Gregory, East Stroudsburg postmaster, both report they have had no such cases.

In case anyone has any ideas about starting, here's the pitch: If the trading stamp is substituted for a postage stamp, the letter will be returned to the sender. If the trading stamp is affixed along with enough postage, the mailer has thrown away his trading stamp.

Bar Group Votes $1,000 To Hospital

MEMBERS of the Monroe County Bar Association voted to give $1,000 to the Monroe County General Hospital Expansion Program.

According to its president, Harold C. Edwards, "It is to be given as a memorial to those former association members who are now deceased."

In other business, the 18 members present at the meeting at Charlton's, Wednesday, voted approval of the prothonotary's plan for storing some ancient records in the attic of the court house since they were rarely needed for reference. Some of the records dated back as far as 1836.

Mrs. Lois Mirandon was named delegate to the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association to be held June 27 - 30 at Atlantic City, New Jersey. Kenneth Lewis, esquire, was named alternate.

Edward Hoffner, esquire, was named the new editor of the Monroe Legal Reporter.

Donald R. Rohn, township police chief, said a car driven by Leonard Ronco, 49, of 815 Roosevelt Rd., Roseto, had stopped to permit a school bus to discharge passengers when it was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Ernest Mastrodidi, 61, Mt. Eaton Rd., Saylorsburg.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $900.

Red Cross Honors Mikels For Service

LE ROY MIKELS, "Mr. Red Cross" for forty years, was honored at the testimonial dinner which marked the annual meeting of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross last night at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Frank LaBar as toastmaster, read tributes to Mikels from those who have worked closely with him through the years, recounting the time, energy and money he has so generously given to the Red Cross over the years.

He served as chairman of its board of directors from 1927 to 1948, resigning to become chairman of its infant Blood Donor program from 1948 to 1950 and chairman of the Wilkes-Barre Blood Center in 1956-57. For his untiring efforts in the blood program he received the Benjamin Rush Award of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania in 1950.

LaBar cited his work in the Chamber of Commerce, as teacher, businessman and leader and hailed his willingness to serve.

Clifford Gilliam read telegrams of congratulations, added his own tribute and presented him with the scroll and medal.

Blood Bank Official

Dr. Gordon Bell, director of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Blood Center at Wilkes-Barre, as the chief speaker, hailed as Mikels' enduring memorial the fact that through the contagion of his ideas and his courage others have been inspired to carry on the work in which he is still dedicated and active.

"In the commitment of the individual to the welfare of his community lies the best hope of preserving America with its principles intact," Bell said.

"Not government by committee but by the committed," Bell urged in pointing to the changes in the American way of life with the traditional role of the volunteer being taken over by the professional and the official in disaster service; with the self-serving "credit" program of giving blood in places taking over the humanitarian program of providing blood for the patient who needs it.

It was Mikels' night with Celeste Rossi, chapter chairman, confining his business to the election of officers. Annual reports were submitted in written form. Mikels was elected an honorary life member of the board.

Rossi was re-elected as chapter chairman; James Gould and W. C. G. Petersen as vice chairman; Lamont Hornbeck, treasurer; Miss Donna Sandt, secretary.

Elected to Board

Elected to the board of directors for three year terms: Ray Roberts, Mrs. Jacob Kintz II, Joseph DeRenzi, Mrs. Helen Taylor, Russell Harman, Mrs. James J. Moran, Mrs. John E. Stanford and Mrs. John H. Fisher.

Mrs. LeRoy Koehler, for many years chairman of Volunteer Services, welcomed the group to the college on behalf of President Koehler. Rev. Harold C. Eaton gave the invocation and Rev. Francis Barrett the benediction.

Juveniles Apprehended

STATE Police at Lehighton yesterday announced the apprehension of two Carbon County juveniles for a burglary at a cabin owned by John Francis Ritter, Kunkletown, RD 2, Eldred Township.

Troopers said the pair, 15 and 17 years old, were released in custody of their parents pending court action.

The two were charged with robbing the cabin on May 6 and taking sleeping bags, arrows, hand saws, air pillows and mattresses and miscellaneous camping equipment. Most of the loot was recovered. The burglary was reported to state police on May 18.

New Wyckoff-Sears Parking Lot Involved Transactions

A PROJECT involving numerous real estate transactions that expand the Wyckoff-Sears property from Main street almost to Sarah, came to completion yesterday afternoon when the store officially opened its new 150-car parking lot, negotiations for which began more than a year ago.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony witnessed by store officials and other dignitaries including Police Chief John Tretheway, was performed by Mayor Joseph Small, with the first car almost immediately driving over the magnetic field which will, beginning Monday, control a very modern, new "Ticket Spitter" that will serve customers quickly and efficiently.

J. L. Kerlin, store manager, states that the remainder of this week will be given over to "educating" customers as to the operation of the lot, and there will be no charge. Beginning Monday, however, there will be an hourly fee. Customers leaving the lot, via the Sixth street exit near Sarah, will present their parking tickets at a booth there, where a clock will compute the amount of time spent in the lot and an attendant will accept payment.

For the past several evenings, crews of Wyckoff's maintenance men, directed by their superintendent, Jack LaBar, have been busily erecting signs and painting arrows and lines over the smooth hardtop surface of the lot to facilitate the flow of traffic and provide maximum safety for driver and pedestrian.

Plans for the parking lot were originally set forth by Edward Hess, borough engineer, but before it could become an actuality it was necessary for the store to acquire many properties adjacent to the lot then existing, and to tear down a small building at the rear of the Tea Room which housed used appliances and a picture framing department.

Temporary Lot

A temporary lot was created in December of last year by the Herbert Imbt Construction Company, but since additional land was still to be acquired the complete grading and filling could not be accomplished until April of this year.

In order to extend the lot to its present size, Wyckoff's leased a strip of land to the south, near the Quaker Cemetery, from Ches-ter Phillips, and the rear of the Huber property on Sixth street. The store also purchased property at the rear of the Elton Denning home on Sixth street; the Sigatus family home next door, and the home of Dr. William E. Andrew, formerly the Presbyterian manse. With all necessary space cleared, it was then possible to cover the entire area with black top. This is framed in entirety by the latest type of curbing made to control water so that it will flow toward a central drainage system in wet weather, rather than overflow to adjacent properties.

In addition to creating a lot which offers greater than normal width for parking, and wider turns to eliminate traffic snarls, the completed appearance is one of beauty. Landscape Architect Robert Ross of Paradise Valley has designed little islands of concrete in which are set attractive trees and shrubs.

The concrete work as well as the setting of redbud posts, installation of chain and placing of benches was handled by Prim-rose Brothers, Builders. Special lighting, to be used during night openings, was installed by Kime Electric Company.

Participating in Wednesday's ribbon-cutting were: Mayor

Small, Police Chief Tretheway, Lloyd Imbt, of Imbt Construction Company; Edward Rahn of Kime Electric Company; Mr. Ross of Ross Landscaping; and store officials: Mr. Kerlin, Mr. LaBar, Walter and Peter Wyckoff and Sears Manager Jesse Pierson.

How to pay for a Cadillac—and not get one!

There are several ways that a man can pay the price of a new Cadillac car—and find himself in possession of an automobile of far less stature.

Because there are many motorists currently considering the purchase of their next car, we would like to enumerate these ways of going astray.

1. Assume that the purchase price of a new Cadillac car is higher than it actually is. (There are eleven models of other makes that this year cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac model.)

2. Fail to appreciate that the basic price of a new Cadillac includes many important things that are extra on other cars. (Including automatic transmission, power steering and power braking.)

3. Neglect to find out from a Cadillac dealer what your present car is worth in trade. (He is especially anxious this spring to welcome new owners.)

And if you take one of these detours, think of all the unique pleasures you could be missing.

There is Cadillac's styling—so majestic that it attracts attention wherever it goes.

There is Cadillac's comfort—so wonderful that every journey becomes a brief vacation.

And there is Cadillac's performance—so great that it is without rival on the world's highways.

So we suggest that you play it safe—and get all the facts from your dealer soon.

You might be closer to a Cadillac than you think.

The House Of The Week

Three Bedrooms Or Six? Take Your Pick

By Jules Loh

IT'S a fact that three-bedroom homes are the easiest to sell, and as long as this is true America's steadily increasing number of large families will tend to remain on the outside trying to squeeze in.

No house-hunting couple with a gang of four or five or six kids needs to be told that their choice of new homes is severely restricted.

For this reason, among others, today's House of the Week should bring a sigh of relief. It's adaptable — without extra construction — to families requiring anywhere from three bedrooms to six.

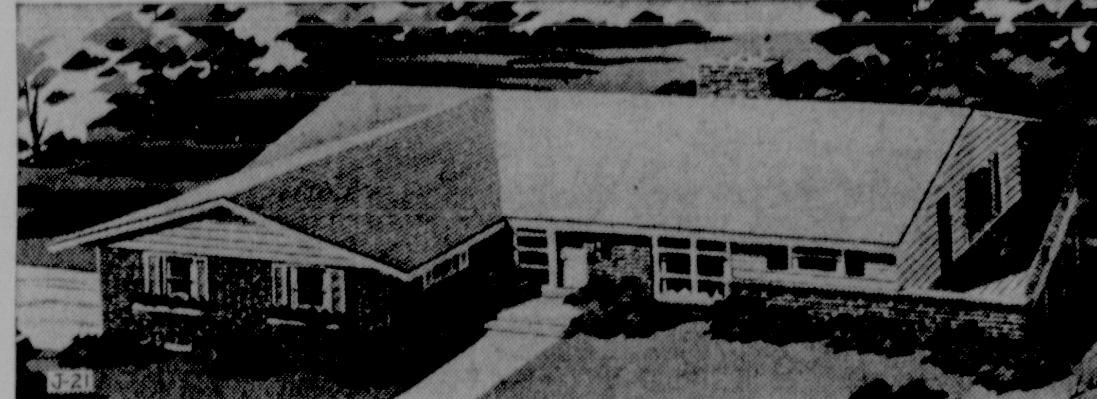

The house, designed by architect Herman H. York as J-21 in the weekly series, is basically a one-story plan. But its greatest potential would be on a plot which slopes downward from front to back.

With the rear grade lowered (by moving dirt, if necessary) so that sliding glass doors could be used on the recreation room, it would result in dramatic and functional development. The two lower level rooms at the rear would have full size windows and thus could serve as bedrooms as readily as if they were on the main level.

As shown in the floor plans, the main level contains three bedrooms plus a fourth room separated from the living area by a folding partition. With this arrangement it would make an excellent den or emergency guest bedroom. Turning the folding partition into a permanent wall would result in a fourth family bedroom.

It thus is an extremely flexible house containing 1,832 square feet of living area not counting the 528-square-foot garage. The optional lower level would add up to 1,304 square feet of additional living space. Dimensions of the house are 57 feet wide by 39-foot 5-inches deep overall. It contains two full baths on the main level plus a lavatory on the lower level.

A striking feature of this

ROOMY AND FLEXIBLE — Basically this is a one-level house with three or four bedrooms, but if built on a backward sloping lot, excavated if necessary, two more bedrooms could be added plus a fully developed recreation area. A dramatic feature is the balcony extending around two sides.

house is the balcony around two sides. In fair weather it extends the usable area considerably, as a dining area, play area — even a sleeping area, for those hearty souls who go in for that sort of thing.

Another attraction is the increasingly popular open plan of the living and dining rooms and including the den, too, if the partition were opened. All three windows plus sliding glass doors which open the broad expanse visually to the outdoor balcony and guarantee plenty of natural light.

The large foyer has a design feature which architect York liked well enough to use on his own house: a brick planter which runs "through" the front doorway glass. (York went even further on his own house, cutting a piece of driftwood in two and matching up the pieces half inside and half outside the glass.)

Closet and storage space are abundant in this house. The master bedroom has two walk-in closets, and there is a walk-in in the second bedroom. And housewives who never can find enough cabinet space in the kitchen would have to look far to find more than this house offers, that wall of cabinets in the dinette is floor to ceiling.

A fireplace, shown as an optional feature, would be an exceptionally effective focal point of interest because of its location opposite the foyer. On the lower level it would become a corner fireplace, equally interesting.

The exterior of this house features generous use of brick in front. The architect suggests cedar shingles for side walls and gable ends would help emphasize its modified traditional character. The roof is asphalt shingle, preferably white, and York says if the brick is red the trim should be white. If a third color is used (perhaps some shade of blue) it probably should be confined to the front door or the underside of the roof overhangs.

Read The Label
Be sure to read carefully the instructions on the label or any point you use before you start to apply it. This is particularly true of the new long-lasting, blister-resistant exterior latex paints, some of which require special primers made only by the producer of the latex, itself.

Ventilate
EVEN though modern wall paints are virtually odorless, you should have adequate ventilation when you paint.

EVERY SO OFTEN, someone contemplating the purchase of a house asks us whether it is better to own a one or two-story building.

If there were a set answer to that question which would apply to everyone, it would only be a matter of time before all private homes would be in one of those two categories. There is, of course, no set answer. Everything depends on what the family most needs. And before we get into a misunderstanding about what we are discussing, let's make it clear that a two-story house in this connection means one that will be occupied by a single family, as distinguished from a two-family house.

When you buy a one-story house, you are buying a home that will make indoor-outdoor living easy. Everything is right there, so that you can move indoors or outdoors without climbing stairs that makes one-story houses so popular with elderly persons. But the fact that everything is on one floor has a disadvantage, especially when there are small children in the family. If mom and dad have company at night, will the talking or music disturb the children's slumber?

Thus, in a one-story house, you have more convenience but less privacy. Which is more important to you? Sometimes, if you buy a house, you can get a measure of both.

It follows, naturally, that a two-story house generally gives less convenience but more privacy. If you don't mind climbing stairs (and don't overlook the housework angle in this connection), a two-story house provides a lot of living in a minimum amount of ground space. There are variations of these two types of houses; for instance, the one-story house with an expansion attic. This kind of house is preferred by many persons who have a small family but expect to need more room later on. Another variation is the split-level, which has a lot of supporters and some detractors.

Seal First
WHILE a wax finish applied to bare wood is attractive, it is also difficult to remove—as remove it you must—if at some future date you decide you want to paint or varnish the wood. Play safe and first give the wood a coat of clear penetrating sealer or white shellac which will seal the wood and prevent it from absorbing the wax, which then can be easily removed if you decide on another type finish.

SEAL THE BACKS
To prevent wood panels from warping, it is important that the backs be sealed with a quality primer-sealer or with varnish.

Post 'For Sale' Ruled Okay

HARRISBURG (AP)—Property owners have an important and valuable right to post "for sale" signs on their houses, the state Supreme Court ruled today. The 4-2 decision upheld the dismissal by the Delaware County Court of an injunction suit brought by the Plymouth Woods Corp., housing developers. The firm sought to prevent Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Maxwell from posting a "for sale" sign at their home in Rosemont. Plymouth argued that the original sales agreement prohibited the placement of such signs without consent of the corporation. They added that the agreement doesn't prevent sales of homes because they could be listed through any real estate broker. Justice Michael A. Musmanno, writing the majority opinion, disagreed with that argument, saying the restriction would deprive the Maxwells of the "very important and valuable right to effectuate a sale without intervention of an agent." The court also rejected as "vague and speculative" the corporation's argument that a number of "for sale" signs "implies that something is wrong with the home or the area."

Contractual Plans

By WILLIAM DOYLE
Q. I started buying shares of Axe-Houghton Fund B on a contractual plan basis about four years ago, while I was living in New York City, through Investors Planning Corp. of America. The IPC representative explained that, because of the "front-end load" on contractual plans, about half of the first year's payments would be taken out in commissions.

I have kept up my monthly payments into the plan. The value of each share of the fund has climbed quite a bit since I started buying. But the total value of all the shares I have acquired so far is only about equal to the total amount of money I have paid in. Is this good "performance" — as you call it?

Also, at the recent Securities & Exchange Commission hearings in Washington, Walter Benedick, president of IPC, testified that the commission charges on the Axe-Houghton Fund B contractual plans are 40 percent. At least that's what I heard on the radio. Is this true?

A. You have a number of questions. We'll answer them in order.

Yes, Axe-Houghton Fund B has a very fine performance record. Its performance has been among the best of all "balanced funds" — those mutual funds which invest their assets in both common stocks and fixed-income securities.

Because of the "front-end load" commission setup on contractual plans, you and other investors who use this method shouldn't expect to reach the "break-even" point in a hurry. The fact that you did it in four years proves that this fund has performed well for its shareholders.

That radio report you heard was just about as inaccurate a piece of "reporting" as anything ever broadcast and distorted on radio or TV.

Walter Benedick did testify

The Daily Record, The Stroudsburg, Pa. — Fri., May 25, 1962

that it is possible that some people who invested through the contractual plan paid 40 percent commissions. Those are the people who start a plan and who stop their payments after a relatively short time. Again, this is because of the front-end load.

Anyone who completes a contractual plan pays no more than nine percent commission on the first year's payments. After that, the commission charges drop way down.

This feature of contractual plans is known as "pre-paying commissions." If you start a contractual plan, you should complete it. If you don't you are, in effect, throwing away commissions you have already paid on shares you have not yet bought. Most contractual plans call for payments over a 10-year period.

This column normally does not deal in personalities. But it happens that I know Walter Benedick well. I have a great deal of respect and admiration for him and the work he has done. There are a number of things that could stand questioning in the mutual fund business. But the big, unanswered question is why did the SEC pick Walter Benedick as first witness at the recent hearing. Anything he said was bound to be blown up and (as you found out by listening to the radio) distorted.

Q. Is it true that you must be at least 21 years of age in order to become a "registered representative" of a brokerage house.

If the brokerage firm is a member of a major stock exchange, the answer is yes. But a number of brokers and dealers who are not members of stock exchanges hire younger "registered reps."

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

May is the eatingest month of the year and Thursdays are the very fattest of all. Although with all the excitement yesterday I'll have to admit I wasn't paying much attention to what I was putting in my mouth except for the vague impression that it was good.

At the opening luncheon at Glen Brook Country Club, the women golfers were chewing real quietly to keep one ear cocked for whatever was happening in the recovery area while Carpenter was hobbling about by his lonesome.

The only time they really stopped thinking about it was when Paul Patten started talking about women playing by the rules on the 14th hole where by common consent after putting four balls in the creek they let each other carry the fifth one over the bridge. That snapped them out of their preoccupation.

At the Red Cross dinner, I was too busy being glad that Roy Mikels was being honored with such wholehearted enthusiasm. Having sat in on the battles he waged on behalf of the chapter and its services, I felt they should have had trumpets and maybe a 21-gun salute, too.

Add to his credit the shortest acceptance speech on record, accepting it on behalf of his fellow workers through the years and terming his own efforts merely paying the debt he owed to Monroe County.

In fact, the whole chapter can be credited with one of the shortest, snappiest annual meetings of the season for which all of the banquet-surfested guests seemed most grateful. In fact, if it didn't involve changing charters and all sorts of involved procedures, I'd be in favor of spacing out annual meetings over the whole year so we'd

Leather Sneaking Up On Sneakers, In Newest Trend

The leather industry is making a hopeful bid for some of that money and affection teenagers now have for tennis shoes by introducing leather sneakers. Although the industry, schools and parents have despised because gym shoes make feet perspire and often do not provide needed support, the young crowd has been wearing them around the clock anyway.

However, the new leather sneaker is expected to make some inroads. Available in all colors and in smooth, brushed, grained and patent leather textures, it is supposed to be all things the canvas sneaker is, and one thing more. Kids can't twist in rubber soled shoes, but they can slide all over the place in leather.

Hits Triple, Homer

Pepitone Again
Paces Yank Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Pepitone, Mickey Mantle's replacement, drove in three runs with a home run and a triple Thursday as the New York Yankees beat Kansas City 9-4 before only 4,058 fans.

Pepitone, who hit two home runs in the nine-run eighth inning against the A's Wednesday, tripled in the third and smashed his fifth homer in the fifth just after Jim Archer replaced loser Ed Rakow. Johnny Blanchard also hit a homer, his sixth, off Archer in the fifth inning.

Manny Jimenez, the A's sensational rookie right fielder, hit his eighth homer in the fourth inning off Bud Daley. Although Jim Coates came on in the sixth, Daley won his second of the season.

The Yankees broke this one open with five runs in the third inning. Walks to Moose Skovron and Phil Linz and Daley's single loaded the bases. Ed Charles' error on Bobby Richardson's liner let Skovron score. Tom Tresh's sacrifice fly drove in Linz and Pepitone's triple added two more. Roger Maris' single scored Pepitone.

Mays Pounds
HRs, Double
In Giant Win

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays rebounded from his benching with a pair of home runs and a double Thursday, driving the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 victory over Philadelphia. The National League leaders ended a three-game losing streak.

Given a rest on the bench Wednesday night, Willie returned to action dramatically hitting a solo homer in the sixth on the first Cal McLish pitch to him. He then blasted another homer with one aboard in the seventh, putting the Giants ahead to stay.

The homers were No. 12 and 13 for Mays.

Orlando Cepeda crashed a homer in the sixth—his 13th—for a share with Mays of the league lead. In the seventh, Felipe Aoué greeted reliever Dallas Green with a 400-foot homer over the right center field fence, scoring Cepeda ahead of him.

A crowd of 6,538 in Candlestick Park this sunny breezy day saw the Giants' power finally explode after they had lost six of their last eight games and had their league lead cut to 1½ games.

Dear Abby

But Not Probable!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a lawyer. I heard from a reliable source that one day last week my husband and a young woman checked into a motel together. When I confronted him with this accusation he admitted it, saying that lawyers had to meet their clients in some odd places. He claimed that the young woman was seeking a divorce and didn't want to be seen going into a lawyer's office because people would talk, so he met her at a motel. Is this possible?

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Only with reservations, my dear.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for 14 years. We have four children. I guess you could call us average people. A few days ago my aunt came to me with a shocking tale. She said when she was here for supper last week, and my husband drove her home, he made advances to her. Now, Abby, she is a 63-year-old spinster and there is no reason for her to make up a story like that. When I told my husband about it, he denied it. I have to know the truth, Abby. It is her word against his. I have never known my husband to lie. But my aunt practically lives in church, so I can't doubt her, either.

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: If your husband has never lied to you—believe him. Your aunt has either a king-sized imagination or a tongue loose at both ends. Both are equally dangerous.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of people who send out hundreds of WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS. Not invitations, mind you—but ANNOUNCEMENTS—telling their friends that their daughter and her fiancé ELOPED. This means, in plain English, that you are expected to send a wedding gift to two kids who didn't have the decency to get married at home and give their parents and relatives the pleasure of attending a wedding. Why should we send a gift for a wedding we didn't even attend?

DISGUSTED RELATIVES
DEAR DISGUSTED: A wedding announcement is not necessarily a bid for a present. Feeling the way you do, don't send anything.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RUD: Do not overrate her intelligence. Even a clock that isn't working is right twice a day.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50c to ABBY, Box 336, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, May 25, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Education a serious business for you. For the next few days, the extent of your learning will be the measuring stick of your capabilities and higher success. Optimism essential in all.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — growing public concern can filter out real necessities and the right people to handle them. Don't rely on headlines. Take interest in community, civic affairs. Rats snarl solidarity.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Auspicious Mercury for ingenuity. Most of you are strongly attracted by opportunity. These are the DIVERS. Others are satisfied to stay back, literally let the world go by. BE yourself.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — May be particular areas of interest to hold your attention but on whole day is quiet. A person with a cause rightly chosen is in line to progress substantially. Give it a real try.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Be circumspect in dealing with others. Unfortunately this world has folks out only to feather their own wings and disregard others. WE must be "on guard." Avoid power-seekers.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — On this Friday conscientiously assay the needs of day and how you might serve them. Work in harmony with fellowman best way. Also look to your inner needs in the coming harvest time.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Check over the program you are presenting. Are you suited to your talents? Does it fill true wants? Can you advance and protect your performance adequately?

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Condense over to a detailed course of action. Get even more efficiently into duties, routine. AND look about for new horizons to conquer, on which to extend combined landable energy.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Check accepted standards is fine provided they meet requirements and mesh with high principles. To be impartial, especially under pressure, is difficult but necessary. Objective screening a must.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Curtail too strenuous activities. Better to concentrate on ones less demanding of the physical. About graduating hindering processes. Therein you shine, can make a BIG mark, now too.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Cautious movement. A wrong turn at this time could delay progress manifold. An erroneous decision could neutralize potent effort. Thus, eyes and ears open to corral knowledge.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Tends to be more authoritative day, but not bullish, more thorough without being pleasure. Solid preparation sets the pattern, and you will have to set the pace that suitably meets occasion.

YOU BORN TODAY: Blessed with a versatile mind and body, a fine memory, generous nature, and for top-notch causes and people, are self-sacrificing. Always busy, change, readily adapt to new, if improved, conditions. Rarely pessimistic. Concentrate on today's deep thinking. A noteworthy consolation: you recognize your shortcomings. Not go about creating hindering traits. Don't overdo; religion puts your life in better perspective. Birthdate of: Edna, Elvira, Elton, English novelist: Ralph W. Emerson, American poet, essayist.
